COAL MINES ON EDGE OF RUIN

How to get prices down when the coal mine owners refuse to do so. This is the problem now. Trying to figure out the situation, the coal mine owners are in a state of confusion. The coal mine owners are in a state of confusion. The coal mine owners are in a state of confusion.

Here's how the problem was solved by the owner of a coal mine in Ohio.

This mine has a capacity of 300 tons a day—meaning, on full time, it produces that much.

Since fall to 75 tons a day. To get more work, the mine owner had to raise prices. It kept him in the red.

Looking over his records, the mine owner found that the labor cost was the main reason for the loss. The labor cost was the main reason for the loss. The labor cost was the main reason for the loss.

He found that the labor cost was the main reason for the loss. The labor cost was the main reason for the loss. The labor cost was the main reason for the loss.

by the after-image of the music. But soon the music of the storm began to force itself into her consciousness.

Yaguelo she knew that this night was different from the others. The two previous nights she had been ill and unconscious; her very helplessness appealed to Bill's charity.

Tonight she stood on her own feet. She was suddenly face to face with the fact that the night stretched before her—and she in a snowswept cabin in the full power of a strange man.

But all at once she looked up to find Bill's eyes upon her, full of sympathy and understanding.

"Bill," she said, "I want to turn in now." "You take the bunk again, of course—I'll sleep on the floor. I'm comfortable here. And now I've got to go to your husband."

He took one of the boxes that served as a chair and stood it up on the floor just in front of her bunk. Then he turned and went out. She understood in an instant. He was carrying out the duties of the cabin steward. Virginia slept.

The girl's eyes showed in her face. "You can see in there now," he said. "You can see in there now." "You can see in there now." "You can see in there now."

"I want to show you this little cabin," he said. "It's a little cabin. It's a little cabin. It's a little cabin. It's a little cabin."

Chapter LXXVIII—The Best "Fade-Out" of All

An hour later Jimmy Alcott was summoned to my darkened room. He came as reluctantly as if he were being summoned to a formal dinner. He was expected to be at the waiting decision which would determine his fate.

The doctor had departed. The nurse had been sent from the room. Motherdear remained at my side. Motherdear could neither laugh nor cry over the doctor's decision.

"It's all right, Jimmy," she said softly. "Too good to be true after the agonizing doubts of the past weeks."

The room was very dark. My eyes, no longer bandaged, could not endure any light.

I hailed Jimmy with: "Feel there?"

"Why, it's not much more than an enlarged vein!" Jimmy said. Then he stooped and kissed the long scar on my forehead. He kissed my lids, my lips.

And this ought to be the place to write "Fade Out," but there is a little more to tell.

"The doctor says that it never will grow under a liberal coat of grease paint and powder! And so I do not intend to give up my profession, Jimmy!"

PEKING GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO MAKE CONCESSIONS WITH JAPAN REGARDING SHANTUNG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The new government of Peking stands squarely behind the Chinese delegation here in its policy of making no further concessions in the negotiations with Japan for the return of Shantung, it was announced today by Dr. Alfred Sze, one of the senior members of the delegation.

Instructions received from the new Chinese prime minister approve the work already done by the delegation and announce that there is to be no change in foreign policy, Dr. Sze said. Any effort by Japan to bring about a settlement will therefore come to nothing, it was stated, and no opportunity will be given the Japanese to avoid the Shantung issue in the Washington conference when China brings it up.

Notwithstanding denials by Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation, that efforts have been made to reach negotiations directly between Tokyo and Peking, members of the Chinese delegation believe such efforts are being made. They see in the Japanese statement that the subject of Shantung was brought up only casually during a courtesy call by the Japanese minister upon the new president of China, merely another attempt, in the part of the Japanese to complicate their efforts to avoid discussion of the Shantung question in the conference.

Meanwhile the Chinese delegates are bringing all the pressure they can muster to bear upon Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour to use their good offices in the interest of a settlement. Since it was only because of the tender of those good offices that the Chinese agreed to attempt a settlement of the Shantung problem outside the conference, the delegates will have no hesitation in demanding that they be given the benefit of such mediation.

The Chinese are not entirely satisfied with the way their suggestions of mediation thus far have been received. Mr. Hughes is extremely anxious to see the Shantung problem settled before the conference adjourns but he is loathe to proceed too rapidly in view of the assertion of the Japanese that they must await instructions from their home government.

Nevertheless, the secretary of state realizes that several other important matters affecting China and the fall success of the conference are contingent upon a satisfactory solution of the Shantung problem, and he has no intention of setting the seal of his approval upon obstructionist tactics.

On the part of Japan, he is not forgetting that France agreed to surrender Kuang Chouwan only in the event that similar action was taken by other powers holding leased areas in China, and that Great Britain made the return of Wei Hai Wei contingent upon the Japanese giving up Shantung.

At any rate, there must be at least one more of the so-called "collateral conversations" between the Japanese and Chinese delegates before negotiations can be declared off. This meeting will be for the purpose of pointing Japan formally to account China with the result of the exchange of communication between Washington and Tokyo. It is then that announcement is most likely to be made of the mediation if Mr. Hughes and Mr. Balfour decided to accede to the demands of the Chinese.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A B. Lasker, chairman of the United States shipping board, today endorsed the plan of the United States Veterans' bureau to establish a nautical school for training disabled veterans of the world war. The school, according to reliable information, will be located in Jacksonville, Fla.

Lasker, it was stated today, not only recommended the idea but promised cooperation. He offered the use of a number of shipping board vessels to the veterans' bureau for use at the school as soon as it is established.

Col. Charles R. Forbes, head of the board, today declared that he had not yet reached a decision on the site for the school, but said it would be located in the South.

It was learned that government officials favor Jacksonville, but will withhold announcement of their decision for some time.

DEMONSTRATION OF WARSHIPS CAUSES SERIOUS TENSION

BELGRADE, Jan. 4.—The tension between Italy and Jugoslavia over the movement of Italian warships off the Balkan coast may have a repercussion in the upcoming council meeting at Cernose, according to opinion expressed by Serbian officials today.

The foreign officers have not yet received an answer to the note to Rome requesting the departure of Italian men of war from Serbian waters. Jugoslavia, learning that the Italians intend to make a naval demonstration off the Dalmatian coast has appealed to the allies.

The trouble dates back ten days when Italian sailors were attacked by Croats at Sebenico on the Dalmatian coast. The Italian warship entered the harbor and others were reported on the way there.

GIRL CLAIMS MAN SHOT HIMSELF; IS FOUND ON SIDEWALK

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Police today had only the word of 19 year old Elizabeth Ylchins, former Philadelphia college girl and daughter of a cigar manufacturer, who said that John Palmerio shot himself to explain the mystery of three bodies in the bath which caused death.

Palmerio, 23, a Spaniard, died at Reception Hospital, after he was found in the three room apartment which he and Miss Ylchins occupied as man and wife. The girl was found unconscious on the sidewalk, apparently dead and almost frozen.

"Is John dead?" he said, "I was the first words she spoke when she regained consciousness. She was questioned by police but not told."

Address by Mayor McCord of Tallahassee One Feature of Big Kiwanis Luncheon Today

Wit, humor and serious advice intermingled and served freely for the edification, instruction and entertainment of young boys and old at the "Fathers and Sons" luncheon held today at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Every member who attended the meeting heeded the advice given out at the last session of the club and brought with him either his own son or the son of someone else and there were approximately fifty of the rising generation present to enjoy the club's hospitality and to take this opportunity of getting a little better acquainted with and a little closer to their dads.

G. P. McCord, mayor of Tallahassee, was the special guest of the club and delivered a very instructive address on the "City Manager Form of Government."

Mayor McCord said at the outset that since he had entered the club rooms he had found out one thing that was the matter with Tallahassee—it needed a Kiwanis club.

Mayor McCord said that three years ago he was elected mayor of Tallahassee under the aldermanic form of government and that in a very short time he realized something was wrong with the city government.

It was difficult to get council members to attend and when they were present they perfunctorily and hurriedly went over the bills and other matters pertaining to their particular departments.

The result was, said the mayor, "that the city was $30,000 in debt, was getting in deeper all the time and actually was facing bankruptcy."

"I then began an investigation of other forms of city government, taking up the commission form first. I soon found that the commission form offered very little improvement over the aldermanic form. Then I took up the city manager form and I soon was impressed with the fact that it offered the most business-like form of government that could be obtained. There is no reason why the business of a city should not be run along the same lines as that on which any other business is run, and that is what you get under the city manager form."

"We put this system into effect in Tallahassee and the result was that in the first year we paid off the indebtedness of $30,000 and cut the tax rate three mills. The city manager discharged enough useless city employees to pay his salary and our expenses have been greatly reduced in a number of ways."

"If you adopt this form of government for Daytona, I would urge you to employ as city manager a man who has had experience in that kind of work, a man who knows what to do, who keeps up with the market and who can buy at the lowest possible price. The banks pay four percent on our daily deposits and are glad to get the city's business."

Mayor McCord was asked if the majority of the citizens seemed pleased with the city manager form of government.

"Of course, there will be knowers," he said, "but no difference what form of government you have," he replied, "but the business men and the majority of the citizens of Tallahassee are well pleased with the city manager form and would not change it."

L. H. Drexler, a new member of the club, then was introduced by President T. E. Fitzgerald and was given a cordial welcome.

The meeting was turned over to the boys' committee of the club and W. M. Hankins delivered an address of welcome.

"Kiwanis stands all the time for the welfare of the boys," said Mr. Hankins, "and the welfare of the country depends upon the boys and their proper training. While we all hope that we have been through our last year, there will always be battles to be fought as long as time is nations. They may not be battles of bullets, but they will be battles of brains and it is up to you boys to see that our country is not defeated in the battles of brains. These men with you here today soon will have passed on to the Great Beyond and it is up to you boys to get ready to bear the burdens that they are bearing today."

The response on behalf of the boys was delivered by David Rogers, who thanked the Kiwanians for the interest shown in them by having them as guests and promised that the boys would do all in their power to make worthy successors of their fathers.

President Fitzgerald announced that the next thing on the program was something arranged by the stunts committee, which probably would be awful, but he thought maybe the club could stand it.

L. R. Reynolds, in charge of this feature, very seriously declared the president had reflected both upon the committee and the person selected to present the next number on the program.

"This is not a stunt at all," said Mr. Reynolds, "but it's going to be a song by Dr. J. B. Davis, who has very graciously consented to sing a Christmas carol for us."

The club roared its greeting to Dr. Davis as he arose to sing. But the doctor hadn't got very far with what ever it was that he was singing before the president called him down.

"You are not singing a Christmas carol," he told the doctor, "and you are fined fifteen cents." Dr. Davis sat down and great applause.

Blair Dunn then suggested that since Dr. Davis couldn't sing, he be allowed to play a tune on a harp and handed a French harp across the table.

"You are fined fifty cents for allowing this," President Fitzgerald retorted, and Dr. Davis and Mr. Dunn came forward and paid their fines.

Mr. Dunn then was called on for a short address on "What a Business Man Expects of a Boy," and gave some very good advice to the boys present.

"A boy may have a job where he can't keep his clothes clean," said Mr. Dunn, "but he should always be as neat as possible and should certainly keep his hands and face clean. But the most important thing is to be upright and honest, and the boy who is a Christian gentleman has the best chance of getting a good job and of making good at it."

Joe Butler, son of Dr. H. H. Butler, told of an interesting Kiwanis meeting which he attended in another city and his account of the various stunts staged at that meeting, held on April 1, was very amusing.

The speech-making was concluded with a very interesting talk by Kiwanian J. H. Heaton on "A Boy and His Dad." Mr. Heaton told how very essential it is for a father always to set the right sort of example for his boy and never to do anything he would not like his son to do.

"We are very particular about the kind of material that goes into the construction of our homes and our business blocks," he said, "and I wonder how many of us are just as careful and just as interested about the character of our sons. When we build a house it is only for a few years, but in building the character of our sons we are building for eternity."

It was announced that the Kiwanis club golf tournament would be held following the luncheon next Wednesday at the Daytona Golf and Country club under personal direction of Captain Charles Clarke, professional at the club. It was stated that no skill would be required to enter the tournament and that one prize would be offered for the low score and three for the worst players.

L. R. Reynolds, Y. M. C. A. secretary, announced that the picture, "His New Day," which was to have been put on exhibition during the luncheon, had failed to arrive in time but would arrive this afternoon and could be seen in the Masonic hall this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

JURYMEN DENY THE CHARGE OF BOSTWICK IN JAX. BOOZE CASE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 4.—Three members of the Federal Grand Jury which returned indictments against W. M. Bostwick, Sheriff W. H. Dowling and others recently, in connection with an investigation of an alleged liquor ring here testified in Federal Court today as to the procedure followed in reaching the indictments.

Counsel for Bostwick yesterday, in filing a motion that the indictment against him be quashed, alleged that the only evidence the jury has was a statement from Assistant United States Attorney Yerkes of what he was prepared to prove and that Yerkes was in the jury room while the jurors were deliberating.

The jurors were summoned at the request of Bostwick's counsel. All agreed that Yerkes was not in the room during their deliberations and Yerkes said that the affidavit he read to the jury was a transcript of evidence given by the jury by a witness previously read, to refresh their memories.

No decision was made by Judge Clayton on the motion to dismiss the indictment.

EX-GOVERNOR URGES UNIVERSAL TRAINING

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 4.—No more than 65 per cent of the population of the United States is physically fit, declared Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, former governor of Pennsylvania, who conferred here with State Director of Education Riegel and President Thompson of Ohio State University.

Army records show that about 1 per cent of the young men of the country were unable to meet even the lowest standards of the war-time army," continued Dr. Brumbaugh, who is touring the nation in behalf of the President's physical education program to make physical education compulsory in the public schools.

Physical education is a national necessity. If the nation is to retain its commercial supremacy it must maintain higher standards of physical fitness.

"The people of this country do not take universal military training, but they do take universal physical training, and they do not want this phase of their children's education taken out of the hands of the schoolmaster."

LAST BILLS FILED IN MARY PICKFORD-OWEN MOORE SUIT

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 3.—The attorney general of the state of Nevada as appellant, today filed the closing brief in the action to set aside the divorce of Mary Pickford and Owen Moore.

The state is appealing the decision of Judge Langan, of Minden, who granted the divorce from Owen Moore. The Minden judge found that the state had no right under the laws of the state of Nevada to intervene to set aside the divorce.

In all probability the supreme court will set an early date for argument of the case, following which it will be in the hands of the state's highest court for decision.

Chats With Your Public Service Man

Why not test your gas appliances to see if they are working correctly, and if they are the correct appliances? It is a very simple thing to do. Just use these tests:

Do burners light easily? Do they turn off quietly? Are flame tips on range and water heater burners about one-half to three-quarters of an inch long?

Are they sharp and distinct with blue cone and purple edge? Can they be turned down and still burn easily?

The cooking utensils, keep clean where heat from burner tips strikes them?

Are you using mantle lights—not old style open flame tips? Are your mantles clean and bright? Do lights burn evenly and quietly?

Can you use all appliances and lights at the same time without any noticeable change or reduction in heat or light?

If "yes" is not the answer to all these questions you are not getting the service you should get and you should notify us at once so the trouble may be remedied.

Never use open flame burners for gas lighting and do not use a gas mantle after it has been broken. It is more economical to replace it with a new mantle.

We are here to serve you.
